"We are pleased to incorporate psychotherapy counseling into our portfolio of holistic wellness therapies. Today's news comes on the heels of our recent announcement concerning BrainCore neurofeedback therapy for our patients. The addition of psychotherapy to our practice complements our vision for a well rounded, multidisciplinary holistic wellness center. Psychotherapy provides another valuable service to our patients who are seeking to attain an improved quality of life holistically," said Dr. W. Brent Reynolds.

through her holistic approach. It is her goal to understand each client's individual needs and to work together towards an improved quality of life. Her expertise in addressing attention, behavior, and cognitive disorders through psychotherapy and BrainCore neurofeedback therapy is an asset to our expanding wellness center. "

Psychotherapy focuses on the biological, psychological and social aspects of the patient's disorder.
